MANAGEMENT OF
PRE-TREATMENT AND
NON-HAZARDOUS
WASTE MATERIAL

New Landfill Regulations will effect everyone

Green 4 Life recycling limited are a forward thinking recycling company, offering all businesses, regardless of size, the chance to save money on its waste by allowing them to bring the ease of household recycling into the workplace.

By simply segregating all recyclables at source and receiving a weekly collection. This allows our customers to comply with the latest pre-treatment legislation.

We are certified ISO 9001 & 14001 and a member of the Chartered Institute of Waste Management.

We have put this information together, because we know from the feedback our clients give us, that the Pre-Treatment legislation that came into effect in October 2007, is another headache in dealing with waste. Albeit for excellent reasons.

What is pre-treatment and why does it affect you?

The new regulations stipulate the “three point test” must be applied to all waste before reaching landfill. In simple terms, this means that waste has to be run through various processes (including sorting), to change its characteristics in order to comply to with

- Reduce volume and decrease hazard potential
- Make it easier to handle
- Make it easier to recover

The big waste organisations are themselves at the front line, recommending that their clients send waste to specialist companies like Green 4 Life for processing to fulfill the pre-treatment obligation, and not fall foul of the law.
